Allowable Subject Matter

1. Claims 1, 7-9, 11-14, 16-19, 21-26, 28-30, and 33-48 are allowed.
2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: Prior art fails to teach or fairly suggest a device for mounting a camera relative to a portable computer, in combination with all the other elements claimed, comprising:
 - a. An interference fit that includes a projection formed on the second opening, and a detent formed in the recess (claim 1).
 - b. A hinge that includes a shaft formed in the holder with a slit therein, an L-shaped pin, a first end which rotatably fits into the slit in the shaft, and a second end of which fits non-movably on the camera, and a spring which surrounds the shaft and exerts inward pressure on the shaft and pin (claims 17 and 26)
 - c. Moving the holder in a direction along the axis so that a second mating member formed on the holder removably engages the first mating member of the base; wherein the step of moving the holder in the direction along the axis further comprises outwardly flexing a portion of the holder, and engaging a projection formed on the holder with a detent formed on the base (claim 29).
 - d. A hinge formed between the holder and the camera to allow the camera to be moved relative to the holder, wherein the hinge includes a shaft formed in the holder with a slit therein, an L-shaped pin, a first end which rotatably fits into the slit in the shaft, and a second end of which fits non-movably on the camera, and a spring which surrounds the shaft and exerts inward pressure on the shaft and pin, and wherein the first end rotates in a frictional arrangement in the shaft (claim 36).

e. Wherein the stand has an axis, and the holder and the stand are removably engaged by placing the first opening of the holder over the receptacle of the stand perpendicular relative to the stand axis, and sliding the holder in the direction of the stand axis such that the second opening of the holder engages the receptacle of the stand by an interference fit (claim 48).

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
